President’s Message

Interrupted
by Irma!

Kathleen L. Robinson

Is it too corny to say that our September membership meeting featuring Dr. Jay Smith was “Gone with the Wind”? As Hurricane Irma drew closer to Atlanta, it became apparent that the safest course, albeit a disappointing one, was to cancel in the interest of all concerned. Although this lecture will not be rescheduled due to various time constraints and other factors, I sincerely hope, and we will certainly try, to have Dr. Smith speak to us in the near future.

I don’t think I need to remind you that being a Hinman member has many direct benefits for you and indirect benefits for your patients, team members and families. Where else can you get three hours of top-notch CE at a comfortable venue, cocktails and a delicious dinner with your best Hinman buddies, including parking, for a mere $70? The actual cost is $140 per person, but thanks to subsidies from our generous Trustees, chaired by Dan Dunwody, we can take advantage of all of these perks for a fraction of the cost. With our dental license renewal approaching at the end of the year, be sure to register quickly for our next membership meeting. The price does increase as the event date approaches, so don’t delay signing up for our next meeting which will be on Thursday, November 9th at the Ritz-Carlton in Buckhead. We’ll hear Dr. Jeff Pafford speak on CBCT applications in endodontics, an emerging topic of interest to us all. Of course, we also offer wonderful CE for the entire dental team, so be sure to sign your team up for our January 18th meeting at the Georgia Aquarium featuring Mr. Steve Anderson. Steve is one of the most dynamic speakers I’ve ever heard and I’m excited to have him share his considerable knowledge with us.

October brings the ADA annual meeting to the city of Atlanta. A contingent of scouts and officers from our society, along with members of our executive staff, will be there to scout speakers for our own future meetings and to see what our national dental organization is offering to their attendees this year. In November, the University of Tennessee School of Dentistry will host the Hinman Dental Symposium, and I have the honor of representing our society to student clinicians from almost every dental school in the country. Over the course of the weekend with these scholars, I will inform them of not only the history of the Hinman Society and Dr. Hinman himself, but also make them aware of our mission of providing high quality CE and scholarships. I’ve heard great things about this symposium for years, and it will be so gratifying to see the mission of our society in action.

As we travel across the country to other dental meetings, we hear time and time again about how the Thomas P. Hinman Dental Meeting is one of the most respected in the world. What makes that undeniably true is YOU. The dedicated volunteerism of our membership is at the core of what makes our meeting run like the well-oiled machine it is. Our General Chairman, Pat Yancey, along with his Program Chairs, Max Ferguson and Brad Greenway, are counting on each and every member’s support for 2018 - “Experience Hinman: Invest in Your Future”. Let’s all support Pat and his team in every way possible to create another Best Hinman Ever!

If you haven’t signed up for a committee for our March meeting yet, please call the Hinman office. Not only will this fulfil one of your requirements for membership, but it will entitle you to an invitation to the General Chairman and President’s Reception during the March meeting and one night’s stay during our annual meeting at Wild Dunes in June. As Dr. Hinman said, “No (one’s) body or brain is efficient unless it is given recreation”, so let’s all plan on becoming more efficient by having fun with our families and Hinman friends at the annual meeting!

Warm regards,

Kate

General Chairman’s Message

What Hinman
has to Offer

Patrick H. Yancey III

The Hinman Dental Meeting has been a major influence on dentistry in the southeastern United States for more than one hundred years. The Hinman meeting has definitely made a positive impact on our profession. We can all be proud to be a member of our organization. We need to continue to work to keep Hinman at the high standards for which it is known.

Dan Cathy of Chick-fil-a always tells his employees that Chick-fil-a is in the people business and not in the food business. As a dentist, I understand what he means. It is extremely important to connect with our patients and make them feel like family when they are inside our office. Although we will always offer quality dental care, we will also offer exceptional customer service. As you know, our success depends on a continued relationship with all our patients.

I feel the same way every March when we work at the Hinman Dental Meeting. Although we specialize in providing top-notch dental education, we are also in the “hospitality” business. Hinman has always been praised for its southern hospitality, so I feel that it is safe to say that we are also in the “people business”. I would like for all of you to remember how important it is to uphold our reputation of Hinman’s renowned hospitality this March! We value each and every attendee, and we would love to see the attendance numbers rise year after year. Just as our own professional success depends on how we treat our patients, so does the success of the Hinman Dental Meeting. Let’s make our guests feel at home this March while they receive our outstanding education and explore the exhibit hall!

Our program Chairmen, Brad Greenway and Max Ferguson, have put together another great program for Hinman. We have 72 speakers: some returning, some new, and some who have been away awhile. We have our frequent speakers such as Karen Davis (hygiene), Lois Banta (office management), Gordon Christensen (restorative) because they are simply among the best in their fields. We have some speakers who have not been in awhile such as John Olmstead (endodontics), Char Sweeney (assistants), Terry Tanka (occlusion). There are a lot of new faces: Mike Melkers (occlusion), Brian LeSage (porcelain veneers), Ralon Wong (endodontics), John Kalmar (oral pathology)... There will be something for everyone with more than 260 courses and events.

The 2018 theme, “Experience Hinman and Invest in your Future,” has a financial overtone that I feel is important. We have two familiar faces, John McGill and Charles Loretto, who are excellent with financial advice and managing money for dentists. This year we have added Megan Brinsfield from the Motley Fool Wealth Management division. I encourage you and your staff to listen to Megan if you have interest in money and how it works to help secure your retirement. This topic will be valuable for the whole dental team.

We will have five tracks of full or half-day courses that are great values for attendees: an assistant track, the Gold program for young dentists, a hygiene track, Childrens Healthcare of Atlanta pediatric track, and the business office track.

There will be a full three-day laboratory program with demonstrations and lectures all on the exhibit floor featuring 12 speakers.

Our spouses program is strong with Roland Mesnier, a retired White House pastry chef for 20 years; James Farmer, an entrepreneur who promotes gracious southern living; a docent led tour of the Swan House and self-guided tour of the Atlanta History Center; wine tasting; the Brews Cruise, and our Friday night party at the Georgia Aquarium.

Our course schedule is available online. Please visit the Hinman website to see what we have to offer. You are going to love our program.

Make sure you are on a committee to work your hours so you can attend our Thursday night cocktail party after the Keynote session. The Keynote session features Dr. Bennett Omalu, a Nigerian-born pathologist who discovered Chronic Traumatic Encephalopathy (CTE) as a result of an autopsy he performed on Mike Webster, the legendary Pittsburgh Steeler and Hall of Famer who died at age 50. The movie Concussion with actor Will Smith tells his story. This discovery has far-reaching consequences for sports in our society.

Please do not forget the most valuable and enjoyable experience of Hinman... seeing old friends and meeting new ones.

Lastly, I always want to recognize the Hinman staff. They are unquestionably the BEST!

Pat

Throughout the entire Hinman Bylaws:

Change is word "chairman" to "chair"

Article I

Section 6

Add "and/or 70 years of age" to the following sentence: Emeritus membership shall be limited to those who have retired from the active practice of dentistry and/or are 70 years of age and who were members of the society for fifteen (15) years before retirement.

Add "disabled" to the following Bylaw: Gold Card/Award holders, disabled, honorary and emeritus members shall be exempt from payment of dues.

Article IX

Section 1

Add the definitions for the three types of advertising that are recognized by The Hinman Dental Society:

The Hinman Dental Society recognizes these three definitions of Advertising:

Informational advertising – is the use of information that only pertains to the advertiser and does not refer to any other service provider. This type of advertisement either informs the selected market of who the advertiser is, the advertiser's location, the advertiser's telephone number, the advertiser's website and the services available from the advertiser, or it communicates general information regarding the services to educate the target audience.

Comparable advertising – is the use of comparisons between the advertiser and others in the same market. These statements are usually seen as positions of superiority. These ads promote the impression that the dentist or his/her facility is superior to or better than other dentists.

Competitive advertising – typically involves the use of a discounted price or coupon, the offering of more services for the same price, or the offering of the same product or service for less cost than others in the same market. This type of advertising is usually seen in the offering of discount coupons, discounted fees or free services.

Replace the sentence "A Hinman member shall use only informational advertising in promoting his or her dental practice and shall refrain from any use of comparable or competitive advertising" with "If a member chooses to advertise, the society encourages the use of only informational advertising in promoting one's dental practice. The society encourages its members to refrain from any use of comparable or competitive advertising".

EXHIBITS CORNER

Expand the Conversation!

— by Wendy McGar, Exhibits Manager

Previously, we’ve asked Hinman members to save their purchases for the exhibit floor at Hinman and to be sure to visit the new exhibitors, welcome them and show them our famous Hinman Hospitality. We’ve heard from numerous exhibitors how impressed they are with our volunteers and staff. They always say that we are the “nicest show”.

Since visiting with our exhibits is an old hat, there is no need to remind you to continue the Hinman tradition of welcoming exhibitors, right?

Instead of just welcoming them, we can now expand the conversation.

When talking with our exhibitors and making your purchases on the show floor in 2018, be sure to let the exhibitors know that we are doing everything we can to make our show floor interesting.

Here’s what’s new for Hinman 2018:

Hinman Hoops – Since the Meeting is during the NCAA basketball tournament, you can enjoy a dedicated viewing area of the exhibit floor. There will be flat screen TVs and some fun activities.

Free Advice – A bit more advanced than the advice Lucy would give Charlie Brown, our new Free Advice area will help attendees connect with experts to talk about a variety of topics ranging from practice transition to social media to work life balance and everything in between.

Learning Lab – We are bringing this pavilion back and it’s better than ever with experts for both lab techs and dentists. This year’s pavilion will feature world-renowned speakers including JA Pamploma, Bobby Williams and Katrin Rohde. Learn about hybrid implant-retained dentistry from Arian Deutsch and a new approach to pressed ceramics from Jared Fielding. They are just a few of the great speakers that will present.

Remind exhibitors that the show floor also has:

Hinman Marketplace
Table Clinics
Total Health Pavilion
Hinman Eateries
Dining Dollars
Exhibit Hall Only Hours
Five Course Rooms
CE Printing
Free Snacks in the morning and afternoons
Attendee Lounge

Be sure to set some time aside while you are at Hinman to enjoy all that the exhibit floor has to offer, and of course...visit, visit, visit with our exhibitors.

HINMAN MEMBER CORNER

Hinman Welcomes New Members to the Society

Each year, the Hinman membership continues to grow. See what some of our newest members have to say about Hinman, the dental profession and their personal hobbies.

Dr. Janice Chaw

Dr. Chaw has been practicing dentistry for nine years and attended her first Hinman Dental Meeting in 2013. She wanted to join the society because of the strong camaraderie between the specialists and general dentists. She also appreciates the in-depth continuing education provided throughout the year. Dr. Chaw enjoys serving others through this profession and is proud to say that she has served a wide variety of patients, from pediatrics to geriatrics, veterans and immigrants from all over the world. In her spare time, she enjoys rollerblading along the Chattahoochee River, trying new cuisine around Atlanta, and traveling to explore different cultures.

Dr. Alex Cole

Although Dr. Cole only graduated from dental school last summer, he had the privilege of growing up in the profession, and he is proudly practicing with his mother and Hinman Member, Dr. Celeste Coggin. Upon graduation, it was an immediate priority for him to join the Hinman Dental Society due to its continuing education and focus on organized dentistry. Dr. Cole finds it very rewarding that dentists are helping people. He says, “spending time with my patients is the best part of my day”. In addition to dentistry, Dr. Cole is a professional actor with credits in television, film, and Broadway.

Dr. Amanda Sengel

Dr. Sengel first attended the Hinman Dental Meeting when she first came to Georgia for residency in 2006. She has been practicing since 2008 and really enjoys the surprises and laughs that come with working with kids in her pediatric dental office. She says, “the best feeling is when you can guide a child through a difficult procedure and see the pride on his/her face when we’re finished”. Dr. Sengel enjoys being active in the gym and on the tennis courts, as well as traveling and live theater.

Q&A with our new Honorary Members:

Mr. Imtiaz Manji

How did you learn of the Hinman Dental Society?

It was back in the 90s when I was based in Canada. After giving a presentation in Montreal, I was approached by Dr. Paul Isler who invited me to address the Hinman Meeting as a featured speaker. It was one of my first speaking engagements in the U.S. and I remember being so impressed with the hospitality, the organization in the way the meeting was run, and most of all the obvious high level of commitment to dentists and to dentistry.

What about the Society made you want to become a member?

Hinman exemplifies the best qualities and the highest standards in dentistry. As it is, I was surprised and deeply gratified, as a non-dentist, to be presented with an honorary membership in the Society. To be awarded this distinction was truly an honor and a privilege.

How long have you been in this industry?

I have been in the dental industry—as a founder and leader of consulting and education companies, and as a speaker—for more than thirty years.

Outside of the dental profession, what are your hobbies and interests?

I love being outdoors and hiking, and I have often combined my passion for travel and for scuba diving by visiting some of the most incredible diving locales in the world. I believe in being fully devoted to every moment and to living a life of freedom, flexibility and passion.

What is it that you find most rewarding about working in the field of dentistry?

What I love the most is the impact that great dentistry can have on patients—not just in their mouths, but in their lives. A restored smile and a healthy mouth bring renewed confidence and well-being that can transform a person’s whole outlook.

Is there anything else you would like us to know about you?

I have always been passionate about what I do and especially in the latter part of my career, I have been passionate about giving back because I have gotten so much out of my involvement with dentistry. I am lucky enough to say that because I have always loved what I do, I have never felt a distinction in my life between work and fun. It’s all great.

Dr. Henry Gremillion

How did you first learn of the Hinman Dental Society?

Initially by word of mouth while in private practice in south Louisiana. However, my primary connection was through my mentor, Dr. Parker Mahan during my residency at the University of Florida, College of Dentistry.

What about the Society made you want to become a member?

The overall quality of the program, quality of the individual’s involved (staff, members, officers), family spirit of the meeting with a focus on education, and their connectivity/relatability. I can honestly say that whenever I have attended any Hinman meeting, I leave with a special feeling about our profession and what we stand for, our personal faith, belief in others, and willingness to give back.

How long have you been in the profession?

I have been in the field of dentistry for 40 years in a number of areas, from practicing in general dentistry to now being the dean of the Louisiana State University’s School of Dentistry.

When did you attend your first Hinman Dental Meeting?

I first attending the Hinman Dental Meeting in 1992.

Outside of the dental profession, what are your hobbies and interests?

I enjoy spending time with my family. I have four children (one who is a dentist) and nine grandchildren. We enjoy being outdoors, cooking, engaging in community service, and, in truth, seeing our students and faculty become leaders of the future.

What is it that you find most rewarding about working in the field of dentistry?

The reward of caring for others and facilitating health and well-being. I have many memories made and stories to share from all my years of experience.

Is there anything else you would like us to know about you?

I truly feel blessed to be part of such a wonderful profession and the honor of involvement with the Hinman Dental Society.

- $90,000 in dental scholarships among Meharry Medical College, University of Alabama at Birmingham, University of Louisville, University of North Carolina and Virginia Commonwealth University

UPDATES FROM THE HINMAN ENDOWED PROFESSORS

With the success of previous March Meetings, Hinman was able to endow professorships at three dental schools in the Southeast. This funding has provided financial support for three outstanding professors. We caught up with each of the people currently holding the posts for updates on the happenings of each school. Hear from them directly! They are very excited about their work.

Dr. Gerard Chiche Dental College of Georgia at Augusta University

The Augusta University Center for Esthetics and Implants treats a large variety of esthetic patients from anterior esthetic restorations and smile makeovers to comprehensive esthetic rehabilitation. This is all under the direction of Dr. Gerard Chiche, Hinman Endowed Professor in Restorative Dentistry, assisted by Dr. Jimmy Londono and a team of two master ceramists, Mr. Aram Torosian and Mr. Im Sung. It is coordinated with the prosthodontics graduate program directed by Dr. D.J. Pannu to teach and mentor prosthodontics residents and esthetic fellows with increased emphasis on total esthetic comprehensive treatment and to expose selected junior and senior students to prosthodontics procedures performed in team with prosthodontics residents. Interdisciplinary treatment and coordination with periodontics, orthodontics and oral surgery graduate programs is a strong focus of esthetic treatment with all esthetic fellows and residents. Interdisciplinary consultations and mid-treatment evaluations are taking place on-site with patient and prosthodontics resident and periodontics or orthodontics residents.

Significant additional time was devoted this year in the Esthetic Center laboratory on expanding into digital technology to meet increasing demand in implant reconstructions and CAD-CAM fabrication of ceramic restorations. The clinical and laboratory work of the Augusta University Center for Esthetics and Implants was showcased at podium presentations in national and international meetings including the California Dental Association's Annual Meeting and the Georgia Dental Laboratory's Annual Meeting in 2016, and the Greater New York Dental Meeting, The Hinman Dental Meeting and the Quintessence International Ceramics Symposium in 2017. The work of the Center for Esthetic and Implants was also showcased in dental publications including, the Journal of Cosmetic Dentistry and QDT (Quintessence Dental Technology) in 2017.

Dr. Perng-Ru Liu University of Alabama at Birmingham

The Thomas P. Hinman Meeting Endowed Professorship in Comprehensive Dentistry was awarded to Dr. Liu, chairman of the Department of Restorative Sciences, in September 2014.

The funds from this professorship were used to provide stipends for UAB School of Dentistry (SOD) prosthodontics residents to teach in the pre-clinical prosthodontic courses. This has helped the SOD to improve the student/instructor ratio from 20:1 to 15:1. It not only has significantly increased the student-instructor interactions but has also improved the education quality to dental students. Furthermore, a new initiative in digital dentistry has been integrated into the undergraduate curriculum; the prosthodontics residents have taken a leading role as primary instructors for digital impressions for the second year dental students. These teaching experiences have also inspired residents to consider academics as their future career.

It is Dr. Liu's goal to continue outstanding scholarly activity in discovery, integration, application and teaching. In addition, he will continue to build and to enhance the reputation of the department, School of Dentistry, and the University through collaboration with scholars around the world.

André V. Ritter, DDS, MS, MBA University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

As the Thomas P. Hinman Distinguished Professor and Chair of the Department of Operative Dentistry, Dr. Ritter has broad responsibility over the department's teaching, research, patient care, and service missions. These activities include serving as the chief administrative officer for the department, coordinating the academic, clinical, research, and service commitments of the department, overseeing budget and accounts supporting the operations of the department, providing mentoring and development opportunities for faculty members of the department including appointments, reappointments, promotion, tenure, and post-tenure actions in compliance with University requirements. In addition, he oversees all department personnel activities and staff evaluations, ensuring consistency in enforcement of policies and adequate documentation, communicating to departmental staff and faculty the plans, discussions and policies under development from central administration that impact the department and the school at large. He provides oversight for the intramural Dental Faculty Practice group practice including overall administration, setting goals for participants, monitoring performance, and determining supplement levels, and serves as a chief academic officer for the department and as such oversees the department's contributions to professional and graduate educational programs.

Dr. Ritter divides his time between administration, teaching, patient care, and research. He participates as a faculty member in several pre-clinical DDS courses (Dental Anatomy, Cariology, Conservative Operative Dentistry, and Advanced Operative Dentistry), and teaches in the DDS and graduate Operative Dentistry clinics. Additionally, Dr. Ritter participates as a mentor and collaborator on several thesis committees and research projects by students, residents and junior faculty members.
